To whom it may concern,

Given the controversy around stem cell injections, of which I have spoken about for the North American Spine Society, when the opportunity February 2017 presented to spend time with Dr. Adelson in his clinic and procedure room, I entered into it with a healthy level of skepticism. I am a board certified, fellowship trained orthopaedic spine surgeon. Dr. Adelson demonstrated that he is very careful and thoughtful. He has a solid knowledge of anatomy and demonstrated that he is well trained as relates to spinal injection. He is safe from a procedural standpoint as well as his sterile technique. Since that time we have discussed mutual patients and I have gone as far as refer friends to him for stem cell treatments.

I am happy to recommend Dr. Adelson to patients who are considering regenerative stem cell treatments.

Sincerely,
